Oakland's Big Growth Comparatively Shown

List of Cities Which It Leads in the Value of Building Improvements During 1907 and 1908.

Our Association has on previous occasions referred to the fact that Oakland in the matter of building improvements has, for at least two years past, overshadowed a great number of far better known, and many of them more populous, cities, in the value of its building improvements, as officially reported. The statement has attracted widespread attention and has resulted in a demand from many quarters for a definite showing. In response to this demand we herewith submit the official record of building permits (from the Construction News, of Chicago), issued during the years 1907 and 1908, and the values they represent in Oakland proper and other cities and an approximate estimate of the values of similar improvements in the territory popularly described as Greater Oakland. Oakland proper, it should be remembered, does not cover an area of more than eighteen square miles; and the area of the territory comprised in what is popularly known as Greater Oakland is estimated roughly to contain fifty-eight square miles. Among the cities included in the subjoined list, which has been compiled from official records, and which Greater Oakland's biennial building improvements exceed in value, are such cities as Denver, Salt Lake City, and others whose area is vastly greater. Following is the list, the figures for Greater Oakland being estimated, for the reason that no official record of the value of building improvements in the city of Alameda and in Oakland's suburban settlements is kept:

| | 1908 | | 1907 | |
|---|----------|--------------|----------|--------------|
| | Permits. | Value. | Permits. | Value. |
| Greater Oakland (including Berkeley, Alameda, Piedmont and Fruitvale, 58 square miles)..... | 7264 | $12,500,000 | 8109 | $13,000,000 |
| Washington | 5167 | 11,425,274 | 4927 | 10,289,916 |
| Detroit | 3687 | 10,682,170 | 4981 | 14,226,300 |

STUDY THE ABOVE FIGURES.

Oakland's growth and general development is far greater than anyone realizes. Oakland is almost unknown in the East. If Oakland has made this rapid growth as an unknown city, what a wonderful growth and increase in Real Estate Values will come cannot be estimated, when this splendid record is generally published to the eighty millions of people in the United States.

OAKLAND'S POPULATION, 240,000—GREATER OAKLAND, 400,000.
